

WEEK FOR BOYS BY A. W. CONNER

Noted "Boys' Friend" Will Be in Seymour For Seven Days April 29 to May 5 Inclusive.

HELP BOYS MAKE MANLY MEN Crowning Effort of the Men and Religion Forward Movement With the Future Citizens of Seymour.

A. W. Conner, the boys' friend, will be in Seymour for seven days, commencing next Monday, April 29th and closing the following Sunday. He comes under the auspices of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, and this week, devoted to the interest of the boys in Seymour comes as the crowning effort of the Men and Religion Forward Movement to create good influences in this city. The meetings will be held in the various churches and announcements will be made later as to the detailed plan, showing where the meetings each afternoon and evening will be held. Mr. Conner has a reputation all over the United States as an experienced and successful worker with boys. He says himself that he is the ugliest man in the whole country but this does not detract from the success of his work and from the enthusiasm with which his boy friends greet him after a week's work with them. Each afternoon after school Mr. Conner will speak to the boys on a series of studies and all boys taking the studies will have knightly honors conferred on them at the close of the week and be the guests of honor at a banquet Saturday evening. Each evening Mr. Conner will speak to the men and women of Seymour as well as to the boys and for these meetings he has a series of character studies and popular lectures, which are highly commended in every city that he has visited. His lecture entitled, "Rex Van Woece, or the Worst Boy in Town," is said to be especially fine and will be given during the series here. All of these lectures and addresses are free of charge. The committee having these meetings in charge expect this series to be a united campaign of the home, the school, the church, the moral business and fraternal forces of the city in behalf of the boys and their friends. Every one who has any interest in the boys, who are to be the future citizens, should assist in making these meetings a success in every way possible. The boys themselves will find the meetings not only instructive but full of enthusiasm and interest for Mr. Conner knows how to reach the boys as no other man in the country. The original plan of the Men and Religion Forward Movement as a national organization fixed the date April 28th as the closing date for this movement in its present form. In accordance with this plan the organization in Seymour will close its work under the present form with this series of meetings. The organization has held a number of meetings for men in the city during the winter, all of which have been well attended and have proven profitable and the officers of the organization feel that they are especially fortunate in being able to close the organization's work with this series of meetings for the boys. A little later a new organization will be formed to carry on the work which has been begun, looking to the improvement of the moral and religious conditions of our good city.

Remember the Conner meetings are all free of charge, that they come every afternoon and evening next week and that men and women, who are interested in boys, should attend and assist the meetings in every way possible.

HURT BY STRAY BULLET Son of Walter Goens Injured While Playing In School Yard.

Howard Goens, the son of Walter Goens, was struck in the left leg this morning by a stray bullet from a 22-caliber rifle. The boy was playing in the yard of the Lynn street school when he was shot. The bullet took effect in his left leg and embedded itself so deeply in the flesh that it could not be located. The officials have taken the matter up, and while the shooting was accidental some one was violating the city ordinance which prohibits the use of rifles in the city.

STRUCK BY A CLUB William Lynch Receives Severe Blow On Side of His Head.

As the result of being struck a hard blow with a club Saturday night, William Lynch is nursing a badly scarred head and face. He was walking along West Oak street when he met several men and some bitter language is said to have passed between them. During the conversation some one struck Lynch over the head with a club, making a deep cut on the side of his face and head. His face is badly swollen and scarred as a result of the blow.

DESTROYING NOTICES Several Bills Concerning Registration Day Removed.

Information that several of the registration notices had been torn down and destroyed has been brought to the attention of the officials. These notices were posted at various places in the precincts in the city, and announced the places where the registration boards would meet, and the date upon which the sessions would be held.

Such notices are protected by law and any one destroying them are liable to prosecution under a state statute. It is thought that the notices had been removed by children or some one not acquainted with the law governing them.

JURY IN PRICE CASE DISMISSED

Unable to Come to an Agreement After Long Deliberation And is Released by Judge.

VOTE STOOD SIX TO SIX. Seba A. Barnes, Attorney For State Made Eloquent Closing Address. Speaks Over Three Hours.

After deliberating for over twenty-four hours, and unable to come to an agreement, the jury, before whom Zachariah T. Price of Jennings county was tried for the shooting of Fletcher Cook was dismissed Saturday evening about 7 o'clock. The case was venued from the Jennings circuit court to Decatur county and the trial which has attracted considerable attention was in progress for ten days. Price was charged with murder in the first degree, and Seba A. Barnes of this city was employed by the commissioners of Jennings county to conduct the prosecution.

Cook, the murdered man, was a tenant on a farm owned by the defendant and the tragedy occurred at the former's home. Price admitted that he shot Cook, but pleaded that he did so in self defense and his evidence was such as to show this fact. The state endeavored to prove that the murder was willful manslaughter. Price was quite prominent in Jennings county and owns considerable land.

Shortly after the jury retired it was understood that the jurors stood eight to four in favor of conviction, but later there was an even division, six for acquittal and six for conviction. The votes remained this way for many hours and finally being unable to come to an agreement, they were dismissed by the judge.

The closing address of Mr. Barnes is reported to have been one of the best ever delivered in the Decatur county court house. He spoke for over three hours in the closing argument for the state, and many times during his speech there was hardly a dry eye among the jurors or spectators.

The Greensburg News in speaking of the address given by Mr. Barnes says:

Large of stature, commanding of mien and deep of voice, Seba Barnes of Seymour, chief counsel for the state in the trial of Zack Price, charged with the murder of his former farm tenant, Fletcher Cook, delivered an eloquent appeal for his side of the issue yesterday in a crowded court room.

Possibly Mr. Barnes' argument was of the most touching character that has been delivered in this court room for years, for his word pictures were painted with a master hand that was deft and delicate in its touch. One of his most striking illustrations was where he pushed back the curtain that conceals the future, and gave verbal description of a vision that he portrayed would soon be enacted.

Who comes around this widow's chair to give her comfort? Little Will and Henry Clay, the helpless orphans of a monstrous crime. No silk gowned, bedizened women, no robust,

SCORES DANCING AND CARD PLAYING

Evangelist Don W. Nichols Also Takes Rap at Theatres and Pool Rooms Sunday Evening.

TELLS STORY OF PRODIGAL SON Interesting Address Is Given Upon The Subject of "The Foolish Father and The Bad Son."

Dancing, card playing, theatre-going and pool rooms were bitterly denounced by Evangelist Don W. Nichols in his address upon "The Foolish Father and the Bad Son" at the First M. E. Church Sunday evening. The text was taken from the story of the Prodigal Son, many parts of which were selected to illustrate conditions in present day life. Dr. Nichols stated that his subject should include "The Foolish Mother and the Bad Daughter" for his address was directed towards the women as much as it was towards the men.

The speaker said that the final downfall of the prodigal son was due very largely to the neglect of the "foolish father" in properly rearing his boy. In Oriental countries the children of the wealthy parents are reared in indolence, and many families in this country, declared Dr. Nichols, are making the same error.

He asserted that the downfall of many of the young girls is because their mothers do not watch their associates carefully enough and that they eventually fall into bad company. The speaker said that while the mothers were washing dishes in the kitchen, the daughters would "seek fresh air" by loafing upon the street corners and around the depots until some man would invite them to attend the vaudeville performance, and that it was in the theater they would try to find "fresh air" when in fact they were the only fresh things there. He then took occasion to condemn the abbreviated skirts worn by the performers and the other forms of dress seen upon the stage.

Dr. Nichols explained the departure of the prodigal son from his home and likened the temptations confronted by him to those which are experienced by any boy or girl today.

The speaker drew the picture of the farewell party given by the parents for their son, in which cards, dancing and wine drinking were indulged in freely, and said that with such training as that the parents expected the son to follow their admonition to "keep away from bad company." When the son received his share of his father's goods he started out upon life's way and as he had plenty of money he experienced no trouble in finding friends who would help him spend it. But as soon as the money was gone and the son was left in rags the friends not only left him but would not even recognize him.

When the prodigal started on his way, Dr. Nichols said, there were many girls with rats, frizzles, powder and paint, who followed after him and were only too anxious to become his friends because he was free with his money, and would spend it foolishly without reserve. Then too, while upon his journey the prodigal son was

GENERAL STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED

Engineers May Succeed In Settling Wage Trouble With Managers of Railroads.

LEADERS MEET FOR THIRD TIME

Grand Chief Stone Says That Answer Must Be Made Very Soon and Decision Will Be Final.

New York, April 22.—The conference committee of the general managers' association of fifty eastern railroads met here today to take up, for the third time, demands for increase in wages to the locomotive engineers on their roads. Today's meeting was held in the face of a threatened strike, a suspension of the actual strike order having been granted by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and fifty chairmen of the organization representing the engineers on all railroads east of Chicago and north of the Norfolk & Western.

An answer to the engineers' ultimatum, demanding increases in wages aggregating between 15 and 18 per cent, was expected during the day by Mr. Stone, who was hopeful of a settlement of the demands of a counter proposition. In addition to the 25,000 members of the brotherhood who would be affected by the strike order, if given, fifteen thousand members of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen have been notified by W. S. Carter, grand chief of the order, that it is their duty to join hands with the engineers.

"If we do not receive a different reply from the railroads to the replies we have already received," Mr. Stone said, "there will be no time lost in releasing the strike order. The armistice really expires at 8 o'clock tonight, but a few hours here or there will not matter, and we will wait until a reasonable time tomorrow afternoon to hear from the railroad managers."

The engineers in Seymour have received no messages relative to the proposed strike, but if a walk-out should be ordered they will obey the order. Earl Malik, who is representing the local men, is attending the Baltimore meeting.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO THE BOSS.

Do you employ young men? Has it occurred to you that you owe these young men more than their wages?

Or—if you fight shy of moral considerations—have you considered that by raising the standard of honor and conduct of these young fellows you might profit thereby?

They pattern after you. Consciously or not, those who work for you look up to you and follow your example. What more natural? You are their ideal. You have succeeded in your business. They hope to succeed in the same business. Why should they not imitate your ways and follow your methods?

Therefore—Your standards of business and of life, your habits and purposes will become theirs.

You may urge that your life is your private affair. You may say to your people, "Do as I say, not as I do." Nevertheless they will judge your creed by your actions. He is a rare young man who is able to profit by the errors of his boss and avoid them.

You cannot conceal your real character.

For example—If you are accustomed to use sharp practices in your deals, if you deceive your customers, your employees know it. Unconsciously they will adopt as their code, "Be honest with the firm, but cheat other people." If you will think a moment you will see where that sort of "honesty" leads.

If you sow dishonesty you will of dishonesty reap losses.

And if you swear, habitually or occasionally, you may expect to hear the echo of your oaths in the mouths of your underlings. And if you lose your poise and your temper you will lose the respect of your people.

If you drink, even occasionally, you set the example for your helpers. You may have strict rules forbidding the use of liquor, but you will find that your habits count for more than your rules.

If you gamble your men will know it, and if some time one of them embezzles your money to pay his gambling debts you will discover why he did it.

If you speculate look out. The boys under you will speculate.

This is not a preaching.

It is straight speech—man fashion. Be not deceived. Decency, cleanliness of life, fine purpose, are yet at a premium in the business world and will always be.

Girl's Color Returns.

Was Pale and Sickly Last Spring.

"Every boil is worth five dollars," is an old saying among people who think that the impurities of the blood escape when a boil breaks.

But that is a great mistake. A boil is only a sign of impure blood and has no purifying power. The only thing to do is to enrich and vivify the blood and the best thing for this is Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil.

Other signs of bad blood are pale skin, weakness, nervousness and run-down condition of the system.

Miss Alice Jones, a bright young girl of Richmond Hill, N. Y., was pale and weak for months. She began taking Vinol and it not only made her well and strong but also brought back her healthy color. She also says "I like to take Vinol as the taste is pleasant."

This is the best time of year to put your blood in good order and build up your system, and we guarantee that Vinol will do this. If it does not, we give back your money. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

VOLUNTEERS IN IDLE ARMY.

It is not at all surprising to learn that many thousands of Chicago's army of unemployed are volunteers. The complete muster is estimated at 125,000 and the commission appointed by the mayor to investigate conditions has already reported that it has found many demands for workmen unmet by the soldiers within these lines. For instance, a call for 25,000 men to clear railroad tracks and other property of snow fell upon deaf ears. In another case 1,500 men were advertised for in the morning newspaper want ad columns and 350 responded. No impatient zeal for work evidently animates thousands of these soldiers of idleness. Others, no doubt, would like a chance to earn an honest living, but there is the unanswered call for the 25,000, says the Omaha Bee. Macedonia is not saved that way. We ventured to suggest before that a large proportion of this vast army of unemployed consisted of the professional tramp and these early findings of the commission seem to justify our belief. They put a very different aspect upon the situation and will go to discredit any attempt to make political capital out of a condition apparently grave.

Physicians tell us that 65 per cent of the children in the public schools of Boston are physically defective, says the Boston Globe. The trained nurses who attend the pupils have performed good service in correcting temporary defects. Now it is proposed seriously to not only feed the hungry, but to furnish medicated baths for children suffering from skin troubles. It is also urged that more attention should be paid to school clinics by teachers and parents co-operating for that purpose. A wise medical suggestion is made that there should be less competitive work in the schools and that the pupils should be relieved of some studies, home lessons abolished and children promoted or graduated with more regard to their actual mental capacity as shown by their daily efforts.

Nine people were killed in January and nearly forty maimed by automobiles in the streets of New York. In every city of any size a toll of either life or limb is demanded as the price of carelessness or speed mania on the part of motor car drivers. It is time that strict laws guarded the right of way of the pedestrian and put the burden of care on the vehicle. It is a hardship not to be tolerated in these times of law, order and equal rights that the pleasure of a few should exact this toll from the many.

As the output of real gold was $500,000,000 in 1911, it seems strange that some men should care to buy the imitation article in bricks, says the Chicago News. But the trouble is that if these men get $25,000 worth of real gold they have to put up $25,000 for it; while the alleged $25,000 of gold bricks can be had for a beggarly $500.

Registration Law.

The registration law is attracting considerable attention this year and is published below in a condensed form.

A voter is a male citizen who will be 21 years of age or over on day of election who is native born or naturalized, and has legal residence in his precinct, county and state. The election this year occurs on Tuesday, Nov. 5th, so a person born on Nov. 6th 21 years previous is a legal voter. No man can vote without having previously registered.

A voter must be present in person to register.

A voter registers but once in precinct where he votes.

If a voter should change voting places, state, county, township or precinct he must register in one to which he moves and if previously registered, bring a certificate of such previous registry from County Auditor under signature and seal.

The Registration board will hold three sessions each year (in which elections occur) in each precinct in May, September and October. The first registration this year will be on Thursday, May 9th, and may last for three days if found necessary to accommodate the voters. The other two will be on Friday, September 6th, and Monday, October 7th, for only one day each. The hours for registering are 5 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. on registration days.

Registration blanks will be left at different places in each precinct that they may be obtained previous to day of registrations. A supply will also be on hands at the place of registration on days for registering.

A person who cannot write in English can sign in their own language, but must have signature of some one in English as attesting witness.

"Women All At Sea"

There are thousands of women to-day entirely at sea, so to speak, as far as their ailments are concerned.

Many are suffering in silence rather than consult a physician, while many others have sought advice and taken medicines without help and are literally discouraged.

Such women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon to act promptly and thoroughly in such cases. It strengthens the nerves and muscles and restores the female system to a normal healthy condition.

THE BEST PROOF.

Seymour Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Seymour residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the cure permanent.

The testimony is home testimony—The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Seymour residents.

Louis Scheurich, 317 W. Oak St., Seymour, Ind., says: "I suffered from pains across the small of the back, accompanied by weakness through my loins that made it hard for me to get about. When a friend told me that he had used Doan's Kidney Pills with beneficial results and advised me to try them, I did so. I received great relief from the first and continued use resulted in a cure. I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills act just as represented."

RE-ENDORSEMENT.

On April 14, 1910, when Mr. Scheurich was interviewed, he added to the above, "It gives me pleasure to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Since this remedy cured me of kidney trouble my health has been excellent."

The Pessimist.

"Let us suppose that a man was on the lucky side of 35, that he had a beautiful wife, who loved him; that they had a healthy, perfect child; that he had a good job, and that they possessed a comfortable home. What more could any man want than that?" "Oh, if he had all those blessings I'll bet the cook would be threatening to quit or there would be something the matter with the furnace. There's no use expecting that anybody will ever find conditions perfect in this world."

Saved by His Wife.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Baintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Laughed Out His Name.

It is hard to be laughed out of one's surname. That is what happened to an inoffensive gentleman, Charles Sainsbury Pickwick, Esq., who after the publication of Dickens' famous novel felt constrained to advertise in the Times informing the world that owing to its having been brought into ridicule and made a byword by the novelist he intended to abandon his name forever. This was the more hard in his case because he proudly traced his name to a knightly origin—from "Piquevite"—"spur fast."

Amusing Artistic Conceptions.

Many a child, as well as some older persons, has puzzled over that "beam" in the eye of which the New Testament speaks. It is not always understood that this means a beam of light. But it was left to Solomon Bernard, in his woodcuts illustrating the Bible, published at Lyons, in 1553, to picture this beam as one of wood, rectangular in section, and several feet in length. Then there is the case of an English painter who depicted an elaborate rainbow. Unfortunately, he painted it wrong side out. But we forget amazement at such stupidity in admiration for the artist's magnificent audacity when we learn that he charged twenty pounds for repainting the rainbow colored in accordance with nature's arrangement.

KNOWING WHAT TO DO

SUPREME QUALITY THAT MAKES FOR BUSINESS SUCCESS.

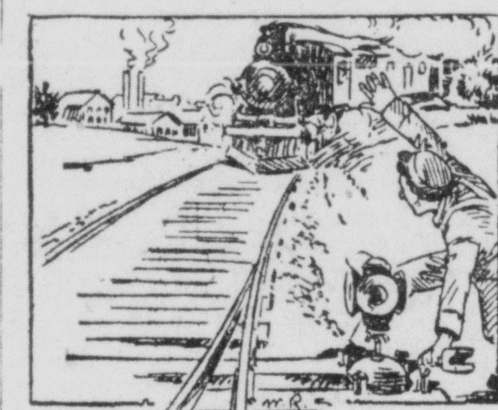

How Railroad Man Opened Path to High Position by Quick Thought and Action at the Right Moment.

There was an interesting scene recently in the office of the superintendent of a southern railroad. The superintendent held the hand of a young man whom he had summoned to his office and said: "The other day you did the right thing at the right time, showing presence of mind and courage."

This railroad needs men higher up, who possess these qualifications. You are now promoted to the grade of supervisor, and may assume your duties at once." And the superintendent passed the young man an envelope containing directions regarding his future duties.

Behind this scene there is a story which explains it all. The young man having graduated from a school of engineering, applied for work with the railroad company. Not being able to obtain such a position as he desired, he accepted work as a track hand. His knowledge and his skill soon made him a section foreman, and his work had frequently been praised by his superiors. As he was attending to his ordinary duties one day, he noticed a freight train and a passenger approaching each other on the same track. Almost at the moment, he heard the shrill whistles of the locomotives. Not hesitating a second he ran as fast as he could to a switch, opened it and threw the passenger train onto the siding, just averting a collision. As he stood at the switch between the two trains, the superintendent of the road, whose car was attached to the passenger train, walked up to him and asked him his name and his business on the road. He complimented him on his presence of mind, telling him that he had done the right thing at the right time.

How many young men do the right thing at the right time? How many who really know what to do in emergencies, hesitate and debate, sometimes until it is too late? How many more realize after it is all over, what they should have done under the circumstances.

Between the few and the many there is a wide difference in mental make-up, a wide difference of value to themselves, and to those who may employ them. And this difference of value may at any time mean much more than can be estimated. This young section foreman's prompt action undoubtedly saved thousands of dollars of property and possibly many lives. This is why the young man who knows what to do when action is needed, gains preference over his fellows.

This story ought to bring home to every young man who reads it these questions: "Am I a young man who does the right thing at the right time? If I am not, how may I become one of the few who do the right things at the right times?" The first part of the question must be answered by the young man himself. The second part is well answered by Henry Van Dyke in one of his talks to the students of Princeton university. Mr. Van Dyke said: "There is no young man before me who is not able, through careful mental training and development, to become alert, decisive, and courageous; who is not able to acquire the habit of thinking straight and acting quick. It's all a matter of self-development aided, of course, by the training that you may receive in an institution of this kind." And better than any university is the school of experience which is open to every young man, a school whose lessons are never theoretical, but always practical.

British Railroad Casualties.

In a general report to the board of trade on railroad accidents in the United Kingdom in 1911 it is stated that taking the number of journeys into account it will be found that in 1910 one passenger was killed in every 13,600,000 journeys and one was injured in every 591,000 journeys, as compared with one in 10,000,000 killed and one in 621,000 injured, the averages for the previous ten years.

Siberian Railroad Not Paying.

The Siberian railway does not seem as yet to be a profitable enterprise. The operating expenses were 144 per cent of the gross earnings in 1906, 139 per cent in 1907, and 124½ per cent in 1908. In this last year the deficit was $3,693,000, to which must be added the interest on the capital invested, $235,292,862.

NEW TYPE OF STATION AGENT

Big Eastern Railroad Line is Trying Plan of According to Him Enlarged Powers.

The St. Louis and San Francisco is working out an interesting plan for enlarging the authority and responsibility of its station agents. The plan is based on the idea that this class of employees can be trained to do more useful work for the railway, while at the same time improving their own condition and opportunities for advancement, by making them the representatives of the company in all matters regarding which they may show themselves capable of acting for it.

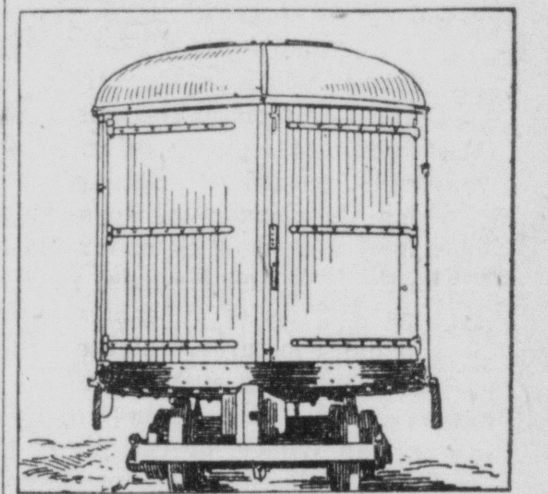

At most railway stations the agent is the only resident representative of the company, and for that reason he frequently becomes charged with responsibilities beyond his power to act. It is the belief of the management of the Frisco, says the Railway Age Gazette, that by making him in a larger sense a business man, with broad authority, in accordance with the practice of large business institutions in other lines, a good agent will be found capable of handling many matters that now require the attention of a superior office or a special representative.

The first part of the plan was put into effect last year, after the Frisco adopted the plan of transferring to the operating department the function of making settlements of claims. On August 1 the agents at all stations were authorized to pay from station funds claims for visible loss and damage in the case of both carload and less than carload freight, with certain exceptions, and within the limit of $50 for any one claim. This feature of the plan is no longer an experiment, but has so demonstrated its practicability and advantages that it is now regarded as a permanent arrangement, and at a recent conference of the heads of departments it was decided to extend its scope.

MAN ON WATCH ACCUSES CREW

Titanic Sailor Tells a Story of Lax Discipline.

SAYS LOOKOUT WAS ASLEEP

Not Only That, but Many of the Crew Were Drunk, He Says, From the Leavings of the Wine Taken From Table Following Banquet—First Alarm of Iceberg, He Says, Was Given by a Passenger at the Rail.

St. Johns, N. F., April 22.—Wireless messages through the Cape Race station say that the cable steamer Mackay-Bennett has recovered the bodies of sixty-four victims of the Titanic disaster which have been or can be identified. They were taken aboard the steamer and cared for by the undertakers who went with the vessel from Halifax. No information could be obtained at the wireless station as to the names of any of the people picked up. It is also stated that the cable ship found some bodies that were in such a condition that identification was impossible, and these were given sea burial with religious services.

Cleveland, April 22.—Louis Klein, a sailor who was rescued by the Carpathia, is held here under arrest until he can be taken to Washington to testify in the senate inquiry into the disaster. He tells a story of lax discipline on board the ill-fated liner Titanic, which struck an iceberg off the Grand Banks and sank with 1,635 passengers a week ago Sunday night.

The man's story is as follows: "The night the ship went down," said Klein, "I was doing patrol duty on the promenade deck, starboard side. I took the watch at 9:30 o'clock and was to have kept it for six hours.

"There was a ball following a banquet of some kind going on down below, and the captain and officers were there with many of the passengers. I thought the company was connected with it somehow. After the party the stewards served the champagne and wines that were left over to the crew. I know that many of the men were drunk.

"There were only three sailors besides myself on watch. We had had something to drink, too."

He goes on to say that while patrolling the deck a passenger standing at the rail exclaimed: "Look quick," he said, "see the hill over there." I followed his arm as he pointed and I saw it was a big iceberg."

Klein then says he ran for the spar with the crew's nest in it and shouted to the lookout there to give the alarm.

"Not a word did I hear," he continued, "so I started. It was less than a minute before I left the promenade deck that I got to the top of the spar and found the lookout sound asleep. I rang the alarm bell myself."

TRIBUTE TO DEAD

Monster Memorial Meeting Held at New York For Titanic's Victims.

New York, April 22.—Expressions of tender heartfelt sympathy for those who are in great grief, sorrow for those who died, glowing words of tribute for the heroism which has thrilled the world, and then strong words, urging legislation and regulation to prevent a recurrence of the Titanic catastrophe, marked the memorial meeting at the Broadway theater Sunday afternoon. Solemn as the occasion was, the great audience which jammed the auditorium from orchestra to topmost balcony could not forbear testifying its approval of that which was said at times, or in joining in hearty approval of the resolutions which crystallized the sentiment.

Frederick Townsend Martin presided, and among the speakers was William Jennings Bryan.

COLLISION IN GULF DAMAGES BIG LINER

Rammed By Another Liner In a Dense Fog.

Galveston, Tex., April 22.—Saturday night at 7:35 the Morgan liner El Sud was rammed by the Mallory liner Denver, incoming, and the former vessel is badly damaged, with a large hole more than half way through her, just forward of the first hatch.

The collision occurred fifteen miles out from the Galveston bar. A dense fog prevailed and the Denver slowed down to half speed when she heard the El Sud's whistle. When Captain Staples of the Denver sighted the lights of the El Sud, he saw that they could pass in safety, but veered somewhat from his course to allow more passage room to the El Sud, but the latter suddenly turned straight across to the left, and though the Denver signalled full speed astern, the collision could not be prevented.

The El Sud after the collision raced to the bar, where she went aground, and was pulled off Sunday afternoon and brought into her berth. About 250 bales of cotton and much other of her cargo is strewn over the water. The damage to the El Sud is estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000 and that to the Denver at about $8,000.

Verifies Ismay's Statement.

Philadelphia, April 22.—William E. Carter of this city, who put off from the doomed Titanic with J. Bruce Ismay, head of the White Star line, says that he is surprised at the attitude which has been taken by the American people against Mr. Ismay, that he had been neglectful of the passengers. Mr. Carter said: "Mr. Ismay's statement before the senate committee is absolutely correct. There were no women on that deck when that boat was launched. We were the very last to leave the deck and we entered the lifeboat because there was no woman to enter it."

RIGID INQUIRY INTO DISASTER

Senate Committee Going to Bottom of Titanic Wreck.

MANY WITNESSES SUBPENAED

In Addition to Bruce Ismay, Head of White Star Line, and Those Members of Crew Who Were Saved, Senate Committee Will Call on Many Rescued Passengers of the Ill-Fated Craft to Tell Stories of That Night.

Washington, April 22.—In the large caucus room of the senate office building the sub-committee of the senate committee resumed its investigation of the Titanic disaster here today. Senator William Alden Smith, the chairman, conferred with other members of the committee, and it was decided that the officers and crew of the ill-fated ship who are under subpoena shall be given precedence over passengers. Senator Smith regards it as important that the testimony of these men be heard at once, inasmuch as they are British subjects and most of them are anxious to return to England, while many are reluctant to testify. J. Bruce Ismay, the managing director of the White Star line, who saved himself in a lifeboat and who was examined by the committee in New York, will be called again.

Senator Smith has arranged to tell many of the passengers to come before the committee. Among these will be many women who have agreed to appear and tell what they know of the wreck. Mrs. Ryerson of New York, Mrs. Lucien Smith, the daughter of Representative Hughes of West Virginia, and Mrs. Douglass of Minneapolis, have all indicated a willingness to testify. Senator Smith has also received assurances from Major Arthur Puchion of Toronto that he will appear.

Interest in the investigation at this stage revolves around the testimony of Thomas Whitley, a first saloon steward on the Titanic. Whitley is represented as having overheard a conversation between the two sailors who were in the crew's nest aboard the Titanic and who claim to have given the ship's officers repeated warnings of the presence of the icebergs that wrecked the vessel. Whitley is now in St. Vincent's hospital in New York, but the committee expects to bring him to Washington as soon as he is able to travel.

Lewis Klein, a Hungarian member of the Titanic's crew, is another witness who is expected to give interesting and sensational testimony. Klein has been located in Cleveland, Ohio, where he made statements regarded as highly important by Senator Smith. The senator declined to disclose the nature of these statements. Quarter-master Hitchens of the Titanic, who was arrested on the Lapland as she sailed from New York, will be closely examined by the committee.

The French ambassador called on Senator Smith to commend the committee for its diligence in pushing the pending investigation and to assure him of willingness on the part of the French government to co-operate with the United States to prevent a recurrence of such disaster.

Senator Smith thinks the willingness of the White Star folks to co-operate in the inquiry discredits reports that the British government might possibly object to the detention of members of the crew in the United States. No significance is attached to the failure of the British ambassador to give to the committee assurances of a desire on the part of his government to help the committee bring out all the facts.

"I have not been advised of any acts of the British government at all adverse to this investigation," said Senator Smith. A proper understanding of the true facts leading to the loss of the Titanic is absolutely necessary to meet the expectations of the people, and nothing will be left undone."

Senator Smith thinks that the testimony before the committee will prove of much value in enabling the governments of the world to agree on proper laws for the regulation of shipping so as to better safeguard life and property at sea.

A HERO'S DEATH.

Archie Butt Died as He Had Wished to Die.

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Major Archibald Butt, one of the heroes of the Titanic, died as he wished to die, when he gave his life in order that women and children might escape. Just before Major Butt sailed on the Titanic an Atlanta woman relative received a letter from him which contained the following paragraph: "My ambition is to die leaving a name that will reflect credit on my family."

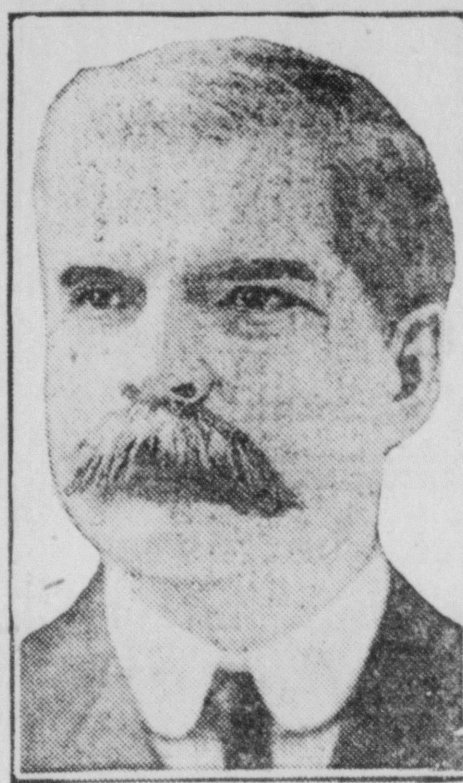

"Archie achieved his ambition," said this relative. "He died a good death and we are proud of him."

New York, April 22.—Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and his colleagues are angry at the attitude of the committee of managers of the eastern railroads on which the engineers have voted to strike. ROCK ISLAND TRAIN VISITED BY BANDITS

Daring Train Robbery Reported In Illinois.

Chicago, April 22.—Masked bandits boarded the Golden State Limited, the Rock Island's train de luxe between Chicago and California, which left here Saturday night at 9 o'clock, at Bureau, Ill. As the train plunged westward from Bureau the eight passengers in the Los Angeles compartment car were aroused from mid-night slumbers to deliver their money and jewelry at the points of guns. The collection netted the bandits $651 in cash and about $500 in jewelry.

Satisfied with their haul in the Los Angeles car, the robbers turned their attention to bringing the train to a stop. Their amateur efforts on the signal cord were disregarded, and they finally brought the train to a stop by firing shots through the air hose. The bandits then escaped.

A FLYING TRIP

Roosevelt Passed Through Six States Without Making a Speech.

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—Colonel Roosevelt came up out of Arkansas Saturday night, sped out of St. Louis Sunday morning, snapped across the southern ends of Illinois and Indiana the rest of the day, and late Sunday afternoon into Louisville and started south across Kentucky into Tennessee to chase right across that state into North Carolina, where his special pulled up at Greensboro today. The colonel will spend all this afternoon and evening there. Until he arrived at Asheville, N. C., at 7 o'clock this morning, where he made a speech, the colonel did not make a stop. It was rest day and the colonel made no speech, though he had to ward them off by telegrams to places ahead that had wired requests for speeches, saying that he made none on Sundays.

MASONS TO HAVE FINE STATE HOME

Big Fraternity to Care for All Dependent Upon It.

SEVERAL CITIES AFTER IT

Spirited Rivalry Has Sprung Up Between a Number of Indiana Cities to See Which Will Be Able to Land Big Masonic Home, the Erection of Which Will Be Determined at Coming Meeting of Grand Lodge.

Indianapolis, April 22.—The report of a special committee appointed at the last meeting to raise a fund for the establishment of a Masonic home is expected to create much interest in the annual meeting of the Indiana grand lodge of Masons, to be held in Indianapolis May 28, 29 and 30. The committee has met with much encouragement and it is expected that definite action will be taken at the meeting looking toward the erection of the institution. It will be established along lines similar to those of other fraternal homes.

The report of Grand Secretary Prather will show an increase in membership, notwithstanding a heavy mortality list for the year. The report will show a net gain of 2,750. The present membership of the lodge in Indiana, as indicated by the reports of the various lodges, is approximately $61,000.

"The finances of not only the grand lodge, but of the 546 lodges in the jurisdiction of Indiana, as disclosed by the reports of the secretaries, are in magnificent shape," said Mr. Prather, "there not being a dollar of indebtedness against the grand lodge, but a heavy balance in the treasury. There has been collected during the last two years under the general rules a per capita tax for the erection of a Masonic home in Indiana. Several Indiana cities intend to make propositions in the way of donations of land and cash to obtain the home. The location of the institution will be decided by the grand lodge after a thorough investigation of all of the various propositions. From present indications it appears that Indiana will not be a great while without the much-needed institution for the care of indigent Masons, destitute widows and helpless orphans. The institution as proposed will not be along the line of the ordinary orphan asylum, but will be in the judgment of Masons of the state, a home, indeed, for those whom the fraternity must care for and protect."

THE NEW LAW

Will Be Given a Test Under Indictments in Floyd County.

New Albany, Ind., April 22.—The grand jury has returned twenty-two indictments for violation of the corrupt practices act at the Democratic primaries, March 1. Twelve indictments, eleven for employing workers and one for treating, were returned against John M. Paris, Democratic nominee for prosecuting attorney; and ten indictments, nine for employing workers and one for treating, were returned against Claude A. Sittason, Democratic candidate for county treasurer. This is probably the first prosecution for violation of this law in the state, which was enacted by the last legislature.

His Grounds For Complaint.

Indianapolis, April 22.—"She traveled in men's clothes almost continually," alleges James E. McHenry, in his complaint for divorce from Julia K. McHenry, whom he married May 26, 1911. McHenry says he separated from his bride June 2, 1911, and that since that time she has gone from city to city in male attire. He charges his wife with abandonment.

No Change of Venue.

Bloomington, Ind., April 22.—In overruling the motion for a change of venue in the state whitecapping case against Newton Adams, Judge James B. Wilson made the statement that he believes the defendant will get a fairer trial here than he could obtain in some of the surrounding counties, where he said the people are more bitter against whitecapping.

"Club" Story Didn't Go.

Greenfield, Ind., April 22.—A fine of $100 and $54 costs and sixty days in jail was given Daniel Lanahan, who was convicted in the circuit court here of running a "blind tiger." Similar sentences were given two other men. Each said he was a member of an incorporated club.

PRISON CONTRACTORS IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Ford and Johnson Company Out at Michigan City.

Indianapolis, April 22.—A receiver has been appointed by Judge Anderson of federal court for the Ford and Johnson company, whose plant at the Indiana state prison has been closed down by Warden Fogarty because the company is alleged to be in arrears with the state $17,000 for convict labor.

The receiver is to continue until a trustee in bankruptcy is elected by the creditors. The liabilities of the company amount to about $2,000,000, while the assets are expected to aggregate approximately $800,000, it is said.

The Ford and Johnson company manufactures chairs and furniture and has subsidiary plants and establishments in more than half a score of cities throughout the country. It has a capital stock of $3,000,000, half of which is preferred and half common, and with real estate and plants valued at $1,000,000.

The crisis in the affairs of the company follows the action of the controller of the currency in forcing the indorsers of Ford and Johnson paper in the Second National bank of Cincinnati to take it up. This paper aggregates more than $600,000 and is simply secured, it is stated. The company has a prison labor contract at the state prison, but the warden has barred the company out of the prison. The state is indemnified for nearly all the wage bill. The contract had about eight years to run.

FATAL BLOW

Southern Illinois Visited by Destructive Cyclone.

St. Louis, April 22.—A windstorm swept over central and southern Illinois Sunday. The Santa Fe coal station at Lorenzo was blown over, killing an attendant. The heaviest loss was at and near Chatsworth, many farmhouses and store buildings being unroofed. The storm reached a width of 100 miles. At Campus a woman was killed and two children fatally injured. The western part of Willitsville was destroyed, and it is reported five persons were killed and twenty injured.

Victims Buried Under Homes.

Morocco, Ind., April 22.—Nine persons were crushed to death in a tornado which swept over this section of Indiana last evening, and one other person was so severely injured that he is expected to die. Thousands of dollars' worth of property was destroyed. The home of Charles Rice was blown down, killing every member of the family except Rice, who was so badly injured he will die.

EARLY SETTLEMENT

Anthracite Coal Miners May Return to Work This Week.

Scranton, Pa., April 22.—That this week will see a settlement of the differences between the anthracite coal operators and the miners' union is generally accepted in this region. So confident are the miners that they are having their tools put in order.

The starting of work in the soft coal regions has made the anthracite men impatient to resume and, most potent of all, they are running short of cash.

Another Indiana Victim.

Laporte, Ind., April 22.—Dr. William S. Fosdick of this city is of the opinion that his daughter, Mrs. Henry Arthur Cassebeer, perished in the sinking of the Titanic. He has positive advices that his daughter was a passenger on the steamer. The list of survivors includes a "Miss D. D. Cassebeer," but Dr. Fosdick does not believe this is his daughter. Mrs. Cassebeer boarded the steamer at Cherbourg, France.

stalwart brothers pat her shrunken cheeks or wipe away the furtive tears. Who robbed this widow of a husband and these orphans of a father? Zack Price. Why so? Let a voice from the grave answer.

"Time speeds on. One year hence I look over the foothills on the eastern slope of the Blue Ridge mountains in North Carolina and up there on the side of the hill I see a stony farm of fifteen or twenty acres, and in the midst I see a little, unpainted, rough board box cottage containing two rooms. Hard by is a little garden paled in with split saplings and over there is a little cornfield—this entire estate is worth $200, $49 of which, the last payment on the little farm, was earned and saved from a summer's toil on Zack Price's farm in Indiana. Out in the little cornfield I see a woman with hoe upraised, fighting the weeds and tilling the corn. She is clothed in a cheap, faded calico slip, a pair of coarse cowhide shoes adorn her feet. She has rough and calloused hands. There is sorrow written deeply on her face. Over on yonder mountain side I see two flax-haired boys flitting from shrub to shrub gathering the purple huckleberry for the winter store.

"Night falls. The widow ceases toil in the fields. She enters the weather beaten house. The walls are bare, save here and there is pasted a gaudy picture cut from calendars or advertisements. The floors are guiltless of carpets. There stand a few unpainted chairs with cow-skin seats, a table and a rusty stove. The widow gathers her orphan boys about her as the shades of night close down, and she sets them down to their frugal meal of corn bread, beans and bacon. The house is lit by the flickering glare of a twisted rag in a cracked saucer of grease.

"At last the boys are tucked in their bed of straw and the widow sits alone, leaning her tired aching head heavily on her hand. She dreams, her head swims, her blood runs cold, her hair stands on end, she sees her husband leap from a barn door, she sees a stream of fire and a cloud of smoke followed by the sharp crack of a pistol—her husband falls headlong on his face into the mud and filth. Instantly a man springs out and fires three shots in quick succession into the back of the prostrate form. She screams. Another man runs out and rudely turns the body over. The assassin, not yet satisfied with human gore, attempts to put another bullet into the head of his helpless victim and is pushed aside. She starts, she wakes, she shudders. She looks about and all she sees is the vacant chair where once sat the husband and father.

"Where is the author of her ruin now? Did a maudlin sentiment and a false tale cheat the law? Did a jury of twelve good and lawful Decatur county men defy the law of God and man and rob justice of her due? Let your verdict be the answer and may God deal gently and kindly by this poor widow and may He keep and guard these little fatherless boys, and may God have pity on the man who has part and parcel in turning this cruel assassin loose on a peaceful people, unwhipped of justice."

Approaching Marriage.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune Sunday had the following:

The wedding of Miss Frances K. Durland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Durland, of Pullan avenue, and Mr. Chester A. Schmid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schmid of Hamilton avenue, will be quietly celebrated at the home of the bride's parents on Tuesday evening, April 23, at 7:30 o'clock. Only the two families of the contracting parties will be present at the ceremony.

Among Mr. Schmid's relatives from out of town who will be present at the wedding, and who will be guests at the home of his parents while here, are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell and daughter of Seymour, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Cruse and daughter from Iowa.

CHAPTER XXII.

In the Smoking Room.

Wellington's divorce breakfast reminded Ashton of a story. Ashton was one of the great That-Reminds-Me family. Perhaps it was to the credit of the Englishman that he missed the point of this story, even though Jimmie Wellington saw it through his fog, and Dr. Temple turned red and buried his eyes in the eminently respectable pages of the Scientific American.

Ashton and Wellington and Fosdick exchanged winks over the Britisher's stare of incomprehension, and Ashton explained it to him again in words of one syllable, with signboards at all the different spots.

Finally a gleam of understanding broke over Wedgewood's face and he tried to justify his delay.

"Oh, yes, of course I see it now. Yes,
I rather fancy I get you. It's awfully good, isn't it? I think I should have got it before but I'm not really myself; for two mawnings I haven't had my tub."

Wellington shook with laughter: "If you're like this now, what will you be when you get to Sin san frasco—I mean Frinsansisco—well, you know what I mean."

Ashton reached round for the electric button as if he were conferring a favor: "The drinks are on you, Wedgewood. I'll ring." And he rang.

"Awful kind of you," said Wedgewood, "but how do you make that out?"

"The man that misses the point, pays for the drinks." And he rang again. Wellington protested.

"But I've jolly well paid for all the drinks for two days."

Wellington roared: "That's another point you've missed." And Ashton rang again, but the pale yellow indell with had always answered the bell with alacrity did not appear.

"Where's that infernal buffet waiter?"
grumbled.

Wedgewood began to titter. "We were out of Scotch, so I sent him for some more."

"When?"

"Two stations back. I fancy we must have left him behind."

"Well, why in thunder didn't you say so?" Ashton roared.

"It quite escaped my mind," Wedgewood grinned. "Rather good joke on you fellows, what?"

"Well, I don't see the point," Ashton growled, but the triumphant Englishman howled: "That's where you pay!"

Wedgewood had his laugh to himself, for the others wanted to murder him. Ashton advised a lynching, but the conductor arrived on the scene in time to prevent violence.

Fosdick informed him of the irretrievable loss of the useful buffet waiter. The conductor promised to get another at Ogden.

Ashton wailed: "Have we got to sit here and die of thirst till then?"

The conductor refused to "back up for a con," but offered to send in a sleeping-car porter as a temporary substitute.

As he started to go, Fosdick, who had been incessantly consulting his watch, checked him to ask: "Oh, conductor, when do we get to the stateline of dear old Utah?"

"Dear old Utah!" the conductor grinned. "We'd 'a' been there already if we hadn't 'a' fell behind a little."

"Just my luck to be late," Fosdick moaned.

"What you so anxious to be in Utah for, Fosdick?" Ashton asked, suspiciously. "You go on to 'Frisco, don't you?"

Fosdick was evidently confused at the direct question. He tried to dodge it: "Yes, but—funny how things have changed. When we started, nobody was speaking to anybody except his wife, now—"

"Now," said Ashton, drily, "everybody's speaking to everybody except his wife."

"You're wrong there," Little Jimmie interrupted. "I wasn't speaking mle interrupted. "I wasn't speaking to my wife in the first place. We got on as strangers and we're strangers
yet. Mrs. Well'n'ton is a—"

"A queen among women, we know!
Dry up," said Ashton, and then they heard the querulous voice of the porter of their sleeping car: "I tell you,
I don't know nothin' about the buffet
business."

The conductor pushed him in with a gruff command. "Crawl in that cage and get busy."

"Still the porter protested: "Mista Pullman engaged me for a sleepin' car, not a drinkin' car. I'm a berth-maker, not a mixer." He cast a resentful glance through the window that served also as a bar, and his whole tone changed: "Say, is you goin' to allow me loose amongst all you do, I can't guarantee my con-duck."

They beautiful bottles? "Say, man, if
"If you even sniff one of those bottles," the conductor warned him, "I'll crack it over your head."

"That won't worry me none—as long as my mouf's open." He smacked his chops over the prospect of intimacy with that liquid treasury.

"Lordy! Well, I'll try to control my emotions—but remember, I don't guarantee nothin'."

The conductor started to go, but paused for final instructions: "And remember—after we get to Utah we can't serve any hard liquor at all."

"What's that? Don't they 'low nothin' in that old Utah but ice-cream soda?"

"That's about all. If you touch a drop, I'll leave you in Utah for life."

"Oh, Lordy, I'll be good!"

The conductor left the excited black and went his way. Ashton was the first to speak: "Say, Porter, can you mix drinks?"

The porter ruminated, then confessed: "Well, not on the outside, no, sir. If you-all is thirsty you better order the simplest things you can think of. If you want to command anything fancy, Lord knows what you'd get.
Supposin' you was to say, 'Gimme a Tom Collins,' I'd be just as liable as not to pass you a Jack Johnson."

"Well, can you open beer?"

"Oh, I'm a natural born beer-opener."

"Rush it out then. My throat is as full of alkali dust as these windows."

The porter soon appeared with a tray full of cotton-topped glasses. The day was hot and the alkali dust very oppressive, and the beer was cold. Dr.
Temple looked on it when it was amber, and suffered himself to be bullied into taking a glass.

He felt that he was the greatest sinner on earth, but worst of all was the fact that when he had fallen, the for-bidden brew was not sweet. He was inexperienced enough to sip it and it was like foaming quinine on his palate. But he kept at it from sheer shame, and his luxurious transgression was its own punishment.

The doleful Mallory was on his way to "join the 'club.'" Crossing the vestibule he had met the conductor, and had ventured to quiz him along the old lines:

"Excuse he, haven't you taken any clergymen on board this train yet?"

"Devil a one."

"Don't you ever carry any preachers
on this road?"

"Usually we get one or two. Last trip we carried a whole Methodist convention."

"A whole convention last trip! Just my luck!"

The unenlightened conductor turned to call back: "Say, up in the forward car we got a couple of undertakers.
They be of any use to you?"

"Not yet."

Then Mallory dawdled on into the smoking room, where he found his own porter, who explained that he had been "promoted to the bottler."

"Do we come to a station stop soon?" Mallory asked.

"Well, not for a considerable interval. Do you want to get out and walk up and down?"

"I don't," said Mallory, taking from under his coat Snoozeums, whom he had smuggled past the new conductor.
Meanwhile, Porter, could you give him something to eat to distract him?"

The porter grinned, and picking up a bill of fare held it out. "I got a meenuel. It ain't written in dog, but you can explain it to him. What would yo' canine desiah, sah?"

Snoozeums put out a paw and Mallory read what it indicated: "He says he'd like a flet Chateaubriand, but if you have any old bones, he'll take those." The porter gathered Snooze-ums in and disappeared with him into the buffet, Mallory calling after him:
"Don't let the conductor see him."

Dr. Temple advanced on the disconsolate youth with an effort at cheer: "How is our bridegroom this beautiful afternoqn?"

Mallory glanced at his costume: "I feel like a rainbow gone wrong. Just my luck to have to borrow from everybody. Look at me! This collar of Mr. Wellington's makes me feel like a peanut in a rubber tire." He turned to Fosdick.

"I say, Mr. Fosdick, what size collar do you wear?"

"Fourteen and a half," said Fosdick.

"Fourteen and a half!—why don't you get a neck? You haven't got a plain white shirt, have you? Our English friend lent me this, but it's purple, and Mr. Ashton's socks are maroon, and this peacock blue tie is very unhappy."

"I think I can fit you out," said Fosdick.

"And if you had an extra pair of socks," Mallory pleaded—"just one pair of unemotional socks."

"I'll show you my repertoire." Then he went up to Wellington, with much hesitation of manner. "By the way,
Mr. Wellington, do you suppose Mrs.
Wellington could lend Miss—Mrs.—
could lend Marjorie some—some—"

Wellington waved him aside with magnificent scorn: "I am no longer in Mrs. Wellington's confidence."

"Oh, excuse me," said Mallory. He had noted that the Wellingtons occupied separate compartments, but for all he knew their reason was as romantic as his own.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Through a Tunnel.

Mrs. Jimmie Wellington, who had traveled much abroad and learned in England the habit of smoking in the corridors of expensive hotels, had acquired also the habit, as travelers do,
of calling England freer than America. She determined to do her share toward the education of her native country, and chose, for her topic, tobacco as a feminine accomplishment.
She had grown indifferent to stares and audible comment and she could fight a protesting head waiter to a standstill. If monuments and tablets are ever erected to the first woman who smoked publicly in this place or that, Mrs. Jimmie Wellington will be variously remembered and occupy a large place in historical record.

The narrow confines of the women's room on the sleeping car soon palled on her, and she objected to smoking there except when she felt the added luxury of keeping some other woman outside—fuming, but not smoking.
And now Mrs. Jimmie had staked out a claim on the observation platform.
She sat there, puffing like a major-general, and in one portion of Nebraska two farmers fell off their agricultural vehicles at the sight of her cigar-smoke trailing after the train.
In Wyoming three cowboys followed her for a mile, yipping and howling their compliments.

Feeling the smoke mood coming on,
Mrs. Wellington invited Mrs. Temple to smoke with her, but Mrs. Temple felt a reminiscent qualm at the very thought, so Mrs. Jimmie sauntered out alone, to the great surprise of Ira Lathrop, whose motto was, "Two heads are better than one," and who was apparently willing to wait till Anne Gattie's head grew on his shoulder.

"I trust I don't intrude," Mrs. Wellington said.

"Oh, no. Oh, yes," Anne gasped in fiery confusion as she fled into the car, followed by the purple-faced Ira,
who slammed the door with a growl:
"That Wellington woman would break up anything."

The prim little missionary toppled into the nearest chair: "Oh, Ira, what will she think?"

"She can't think!" Ira grumbled.
"In a little while she'll know."

"Don't you think we'd better tell everybody before they begin to talk?"

Ira glowed with pride at the thought and murmured with all the ardor of a seile Romeo: "I suppose so, ducky darling. I'll break it—I mean I'll tell it to the men, and you tell the women."

"All right, dear, I'll obey you," she answered, meekly.

"Obey me!" Ira laughed with boyish swagger. "And you a missionary!"

"Well, I've converted one heathen, anyway," said Anne as she darted down the corridor, followed by Ira, who announced his intention to "go to the baggage car and dig up his old Prince Albert."

In their flight forward they passed the mysterious woman in the stateroom. They were too full of their own mystery to give thought to hers.
Mrs. Fosdick went timidly prowling toward the observation car, suspecting everybody to be a spy, as Mallory suspected everybody to be a clergyman in disguise.

As she stole along the corridor past the men's clubroom she saw her husband—her here-and-there husband
—wearily counting the telegraph posts and summing them up into miles. She tapped on the glass and signalled to him, then passed on.

He answered with a look, then pretended not to have noticed, and waited a few moments before he rose with an elaborate air of carelessness. He beckoned the porter and said:

"Let me know the moment we enter Utah, will you?"

"Yassah. We'll be comin' along right soon now. We got to pass through the big Aspen tunnel, after that, befo' long, we splounce into old Utah."

"Don't forget," said Fosdick, as he sauntered out. Ashton perked up his ears at the promise of a tunnel and kept his eye on his watch.

Fosdick entered the observation room with a hungry look in his luscious eyes. His now-and-then wife put up a warning finger to indicate Mrs. Whitcomb's presence at the writing desk.

Fosdick's smile froze into a smirk
of formality and he tried to chill his tone as if he were speaking to a total stranger.

"Good afternoon."

Mrs. Fosdick answered with equal fice: "Good afternoon. Won't you sit down?"

"Thanks. Very picturesque scenery, isn't it?"

"Isn't it?" Fosdick seated himself, looked about cautiously, noted that Mrs. Whitcomb was apparently absorbed in her letter, then lowered his voice confidentially. His face kept up a strained pretense of indifference, but his whisper was passionate with longing:

"Has my poor little wifey missed
her poor old hubby?"

"Oh, so much!" she whispered.
"Has poor little hubby missed his poor old wife?"

"Horribly. Was she lonesome in that dismal stateroom all by herself?"

"Oh, so miserable! I can't stand it much longer."

Fosdick's face blazed with good news: "In just a little while we come to the Utah line—then we're safe."

"God bless Utah!"

The rapture died from her face as she caught sight of Dr. Temple, who happened to stroll in and go to the bookshelves, and taking out a book happened to glance near-sightedly her way.

"Be careful of that man, dearie," Mrs. Fosdick hissed out of one side of her mouth. "He's a very strange character."

Her husband was infected with her own terror. He asked, huskily: "What do you think he is?"

"A detective! I'm sure he's watching us. He followed you right in here."

"We'll be very cautious—till we get to Utah."

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy today, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

The Fruit of Faith

By Rev. James M. Gray, D. D.
Dean of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord, Jesus Christ.

By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience.

And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.—Romans 5:1-5.

I. The first fruit of faith is justification, which means not only that the believer is forgiven of his sins, but that he is regarded in God's sight as though he had never sinned. Captain Dreyfus, the French officer, was pardoned by the president of the French republic, and set at liberty, but he sought another trial in order to secure justification in the eyes of France and the whole world. He demanded it, however, on the ground of his innocence, while the Christian believer receives it as an act of free grace on the ground of Christ's work in his behalf.

Peace With God and the Peace of God. II. "Being justified by faith, therefore, we have peace with God." This is the second fruit of faith. The apostle does not say we have the peace "of" God. The one is a condition, the other an experience of that condition.

The moment a man accepts Jesus Christ as his Saviour, he comes into a state of peace with God, where all enmity is put away, and he is no longer abiding under wrath or condemnation for his sin. It may take him some time to realize or apprehend this through the weakness of his faith, but it is a fact nevertheless, and the sooner he grasps it by faith, the sooner will he come to experience it, and know the peace of God which passeth all understanding.

III. But as the result of being justified, the believer not only has peace with God, but "access" unto God, as the apostle says. Sometimes when we "make up" with a man after being at variance with him, we try nevertheless to keep him at arm's length. Not so in the case of God's reconciliation to us. He permits us to come into the closest friendship and fellowship with him in Christ. It were as though he invited us to sit down at his table and break bread with him. We are now entirely at one with him.

Reasons for Rejoicing.

IV. And not only have we access, but "rejoicing." There are three things for the believer to rejoice in. In the first place, he rejoices "in the hope of glory." That is, in the hope of seeing God's glory in the face of Jesus Christ when he shall be revealed again, and the hope of entering into that glory and partaking of it as one of the redeemed ones.

In the second place, he rejoices "in tribulations also," because as the apostle teaches, the tribulation through which a Christian passes enlarges his experience of God as his comforter and deliverer.

This experience assures him of God's love for him and contributes to the quickening and strengthening of his hope concerning the greater comfort and deliverance that is to come. I am a millionaire and promise you a hundred thousand dollars at a certain time, and also promise, to help you out of every financial crisis which may overtake you in the meantime. Now such financial crises come to be regarded by you as blessings in disguise if I keep my promise every time. In other words, the fulfillment of the minor promise on each occasion furnishes an additional evidence of the ultimate fulfillment of the major one. This is the meaning here.

V. Finally, the true believer comes to rejoice in God himself, for to the verses of our text we may add the thought of verse 11, which teaches that truth. This is the acme of the experience of the justified state, when we are no longer occupied with the gifts, but the giver. The love of God for us is so shed abroad in our hearts as more and more we trust in him, that we are no longer absorbed in the blessings he bestows so much as we are absorbed in him. We come to love him at last not for what he gives but for what he is.

These are some of the blessed fruits of our faith in Jesus Christ. Who would not covet them if they are real? Who would not desire to be right with God, to be at peace with him, to have conscious access unto him, to rejoice in relationship with him every day?

But why not try if they are real? Why not "taste and see that the Lord is good?" Why not in the quiet of your heart just now, receive Jesus Christ as your Saviour, and ask God to give you his Holy Spirit to make these things real? God will hear this prayer as you keep asking him, for he loves and wants to bless you in his Son.

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

If an old sore existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the place that would kill the germs; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result. Just as long as the pollution continues in the blood, the ulcer remains an open cesspool for the deposit of impurities which the circulation throws off. S. S. S. cures Old Sores by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity and taint from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

royally entertained at the homes of the rich noblemen and invited to call again when he was passing, but that when he did return having lost all of his money and was clothed in rags, the same people would not admit him and denied ever having seen him.

Soon after the boy started out on his trip he was associated with wickedness and spent his time in riotous living, which would include, according to the speaker, dances, cards, drinking, theatres and pool rooms as applied to the temptations of modern life. Dancing was strongly condemned and was defined as "hugging your girl to music."

Then finally the young man was robbed by thieves and all of his money taken. Dr. Nichols said that there are many robbers and thieves in Seymour and every other city awaiting to rob the children who pass their way.

The speaker pointed out that the father of the prodigal son made the same mistake many fathers are making today in providing their children with too much money, and not guiding them towards right living. He declared that a young man or lady should not depart from the teachings of the Bible, for the friends made among religious people were friends in poverty as well as in plenty. He urged that the young people select their companions with the greatest of care and choose only those who were known to be of the highest moral character.

The attention given the speaker was excellent and the address was enjoyed by a large audience. Dr. Nichols will continue the special meetings during the week.

WANTS DAMAGES

Mrs. Sarah K. Hutchinson Asks $1000 For Alleged Injuries.

Through her attorneys, Elsner and Kasting, Mrs. Sarah K. Hutchinson of West Brown street, has filed a damage suit against the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company, asking $1000 for personal injuries alleged to have been received while a passenger upon one of the defendant's cars last October. The case has not been set for trial, having been filed in vacation, but will probably be tried during the coming term of court.

The plaintiff alleges in her complaint that she boarded the car at Seymour and was on her way to Indianapolis. That she occupied a seat where the window was up, and during the trip placed her hand upon the window sill. She further states that the window fell with great force upon her right hand, mashing several of the fingers, and that the injury has caused her great inconvenience and much pain.

The complaint states that the injury was due to the defective catch upon the window, and that the company was negligent in not equipping the window with a safety catch. She avers that the fingers of her right hand were severely bruised and that the flesh of the middle finger was so badly bruised and torn that the nail came entirely off.

A passenger occupying the seat back of Mrs. Hutchinson released the window so that she could withdraw her hand, but she states that the injured hand could not be given proper attention until she reached Indianapolis.

Long Service With One Firm.

A gathering, unique in the history of Australia, took place recently at the Grand Central Hotel, Adelaide, South Australia, when the firm of Messrs. G. and R. Wills & Co., of London, Adelaide, Melbourne, Perth and Broken Hill, gave a dinner to two of their oldest employees, Mr. D. H. H. Weir and Mr. John Anderson. Mr. Weir has been in the service of the firm since 1860, being twelve months in the retail portion and fifty years in the wholesale. Mr. Anderson started as a boy in 1861 and is now head of the counting house; so the service of the two veterans totals well over 100 years.

FIREMAN RELATES STORY

Tells How Fatal Accident on B. & O. S-W. Occurred.

The funeral of H. O. Byers, master of carpenters of the Illinois division of the B. & O. Southwestern, who with Jesse Taylor, a bridge inspector, was run down on a motor "speeder" by passenger train 11 near Carlyle, Ill., Thursday evening and instantly killed, was held this afternoon at Olney, Ill. Burial also was made at Olney, the birthplace and former home of the dead man.

Henry Alberti, and James Utterback, both of Washington, engineer and fireman respectively of the locomotive that was pulling train 11 at the time of the accident, were at Carlyle, Ill., Friday afternoon to attend the coroner's inquest. They returned to Washington today on train 12.

"We never imagined for a minute that the men on the 'speeder' did not hear the warning blasts of the engine whistle," said Mr. Utterback "and believing that they did hear them, naturally expected that they could get off the tracks. When Mr. Alberti realized that the two men were ignorant of the approach of the train, he immediately applied the emergency. But it was too late, and the small motor car was shattered in the collision. A gust of wind blew Byer's hat from his head. He turned in an effort to catch it and then for the first time saw the oncoming train. The engine was then but a few feet away."

About Paint that masquerades as being cheap

Look behind the mask of price and judge paint by its one true standard of value—the cost per gallon for each year of service which it gives.

A paint "cheap" in price will wear anywhere from six months to two or three years—let's be generous and say two to three years.

Lucas TINTED GLOSS PAINT

ONCE USED-ALWAYS PREFERRED

will wear five years or more.

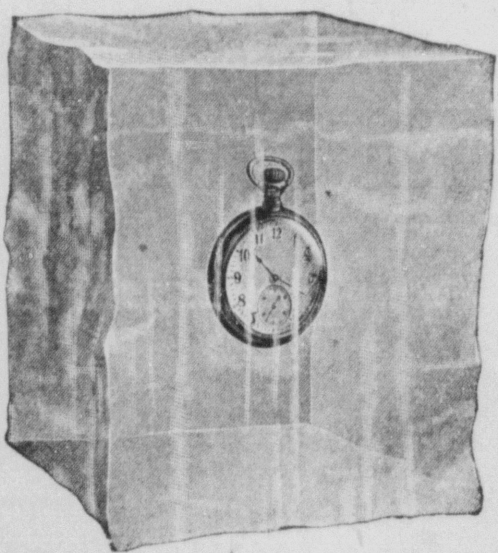

Divide the price of a cheap paint by two or three and the price of Tinted Gloss by five and then you will have the true basis on which to buy paint—the cost per gallon for each year's service you get out of the paint.

Your figures may show that the paint which masquerades as being cheap is really more expensive than a good paint like Tinted Gloss.
